WORKERS SHOW A BIG INCREASE

Twenty-five Members, Bringing Total up to Seventy-Five, Added to Chamber of Commerce.

TEAMS OUT THIS AFTERNOON

Noonday Luncheon Arouses Good Spirit and Crowd Increases—More Coming Out Tomorrow.

Twenty-five new members were chalked up on the score board today and as many membership pledges were signed. This brings the total up to seventy-five, and with present prospects, the membership should boom daily with increased vigor.

A greater interest in the campaign for the Chamber of Commerce was shown today than has been since the organization was started. The noonday luncheon today was replete with enthusiasm and the workers started forth at a few minutes after one with renewed vigor.

Four teams of men were at work this afternoon and it is safe to estimate that they will boost the membership materially by tonight. The noonday luncheon feature has been bringing the workers in closer touch and they have discussed the plans man to man with candor.

James E. Watson was present at the luncheon today and made a few remarks concerning the organization work which is going forward so promisingly today. He expressed hearty co-operation with the plan.

"There isn't any argument against a comprehensive organization like this," said Mr. Watson. "No one can offer any justification for not joining in a movement of this sort. It is wide in its prospective and it has the best interests of the community embodied in its make-up."

"Neither is the question that the county seat towns are declining because of the trend toward the larger cities open to argument. The statistics are convincing enough to me that such a thing does exist. It is up to the towns like Rushville to organize and prepare to stop the movement in so far as this town itself is concerned.

"There is no doubt but that the community spirit can be aroused by such an organization. That is what we in Rushville can do. We can get it all by joining together. I know that the people who have not been disposed to look favorably at this organization will change their opinion once they get in touch with all of you workers who are spending your time at it."

The noonday luncheons have aroused a fine feeling among the men who are interested in the movement and they will be continued so long as the organization is being perfected. A number of men who were not present today have promised to come out tomorrow and devote some time to the work.

FAIR BOARD MEETS FEB. 2

Will Make up Premium List For Next Annual Exhibit Here.

The Rush county fair board will meet in the office of the secretary, J. Q. Thomas, the first Monday in February, which is the second day of the month, to make out the premium lists for the next annual exhibit. A full attendance of the board is anticipated as a great deal of interest is being shown not only by the officials, but by many other citizens.

HAS M. J. OGDON ARRESTED

Jesse Smith Files Charge Before Squire Kratzer.

M. J. Ogdon will be tried tomorrow afternoon before Squire Kratzer on an assault and battery charge. The affidavit was filed by Jesse Smith, who alleges that Ogdon pulled him off a bicycle. It will be remembered that Ogdon had Smith arrested on a provoke charge and now Smith comes back and says that if he provoked Ogdon then Ogdon committed assault and battery on him. The trial is set for two o'clock. The case against Smith was heard yesterday.

TWO MORE CASES UP BEFORE MAYOR

Charged With Refusing to Render Aid to Officer—Special Judge Appointed in One.

OTHER UNDER ADVISEMENT

Cleve Plummer and John Swanington were arraigned before Mayor Bebout this morning on the charge of refusing to render assistance to an officer. It was alleged that the two men refused to aid policeman Hardin, who was taking Joe and John Moran to jail following the clean up on the Tyner tailor shop. Frank J. Hall appeared for Plummer and asked for a change of judge. Mayor Bebout appointed Gates Sexton to hear this case. Swanington stood trial. The only witness against him was Hardin who testified that he appealed to Swanington and Plummer to help and that they refused. Swanington and Plummer told a different story. They said the policeman called for help but did not call out their names. Mayor Bebout took the case under advisement. The case against Plummer will probably be tried tomorrow afternoon.

ACTION HELD UP BY REMONSTRANCE

It is Filed Against County Line Road at Joint Session of Rush and Shelby Commissioners.

MEET TO APPROVE REPORTS

The Rush county board of commissioners yesterday went to Shelbyville to meet in joint session with the Shelby county commissioners to approve the report of the engineers and viewers of the Joseph Redenbough et al. county line road, but they returned home last night with their purpose unaccomplished, because a remonstrance was filed against the building of the road.

The remonstrance was filed with the Shelby county auditor some few days ago and was presented to the meeting yesterday. The joint body set Monday, February 9th for hearing the remonstrance and nothing can be done further on the arrangements for the building of the road until the merits of the remonstrance are tested out.

The road is on the line between Liberty township, Shelby county, and Orange township, Rush county.

Unusual Temperatures and Warm Atmosphere Make Some People Think Spring Has Really Come.

Farmers Are Getting Out Plows, But Fear That Damage May be Done if Cold Snap Appears.

SNOWY BLASTS DUE.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 29.—The summer weather Indiana has enjoyed this week will be changed into wintry blasts by tonight, according to the cold wave prediction issued by the weather bureau here today.

If anyone should happen to doubt that spring is not here in earnest, for the present at least, he should consult a few Rushville merchants, who are telling stories of the unusual demand for this season.

Dealers who handle seeds or garden tools say that calls have been numerous which indicates that many persons are planning to make garden already. It is reported that a number of back yards have been spaded up with a view to doing some planting at the earliest possible date.

Unprecedented temperature for years was hung up yesterday and today when the mercury soared above the sixty station. The weather man promised rain today, and about noon the skies clouded, but no rain put in its appearance here.

From nearly every township in the county come the reports that farmers are plowing and are getting their ground in readiness for the spring crops. The balmy atmosphere at this time of the year is out of the ordinary, but according to the weather predictions, will not continue long. Several severe storms accompanied by rain and sleet are forecasted for February, and if these predictions are true, the seeds and garden tools which were purchased early can be laid away for several weeks.

The weather conditions are very comfortable, but are most unseasonable. They are not at all satisfactory to the merchants who expected to sell heavy winter goods this month but if the forecasts prove correct there will be a lively demand for heavy overcoats, ear protectors and felt boots before the coming month has advanced far.

During the last week quite a number of automobiles have been inspected and oiled and put in service. Local garage men say that they have all the work they can do for several weeks and attribute the rush to the warm weather, as many owners of cars have been reminded that spring will soon be here and want their machines ready for the first favorable weather.

Farmers are especially interested in the weather predictions because of the growing wheat. Many days of this April weather will cause the wheat to grow rapidly and it is feared that it will reach such an advanced stage that it will be injured if a severe cold snap should come in February or March. The farmers say that thus far the wheat is in excellent condition and would stand snow and sleet without being damaged.

Fruit growers also predict a good year unless the warm weather prevailed for a long period and is followed by a sudden drop in temperature. Peach orchards are being watched closely, as they are easily injured by a sudden change in temperature. An orchardist stated that the buds on his trees had not showed

EXCELLENT IDEAS ON GOVERNMENT

Rushville Audience Hears of New Methods Used in Municipalities Over Country.

W. K. STEWART GIVES LECTURE

Rev. W. C. Wicks of Indianapolis, Noted as Lecturer Will be Next in Series.

Some excellent ideas on city government were advanced in the lecture given by W. K. Stewart of Indianapolis at the court house assembly room last night. Mr. Stewart knew whereof he spoke, because he has a very wide experience in this particular phase, having traveled all over Europe with the special intent of studying the various forms of municipal government.

Mr. Stewart discussed intelligently the commission form of government and the managerial form of government to the delight and instruction of the audience. It was the most thoughtful and careful explanation of these two advanced methods in municipalities that the Rushville people at the meeting had ever heard or read.

This was the second of a series of free lectures which are being given under the auspices of the library commission and the third will be held at an early date. The Rev. W. C. Wicks of Indianapolis, who has a wide reputation as a lecturer will speak.

NEWCASTLE WAS DEFEATED

Close Game Went to Carthage Last Night.

The Carthage Independents defeated the fast Newcastle team last night at Carthage, 29 to 21. The game was the best seen on the Carthage floor this season and was as close as the score indicates. Although the Newcastle team at no time had a lead, a scare was handed the Carthage team more than once. The first half ended with Carthage in the lead, 12 to 5. Newcastle took a brace in the last period and at one time came near tying up the count as the score stood 23 to 21 in favor of Carthage. In the last few minutes Carthage played desperately and held Newcastle safe. John Johnson, the Morristown boy, who plays with Carthage was the star of the game.

DRILL TONIGHT.

The Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias will hold their regular drill tonight. A large attendance is desired. Refreshments will be served.

WILL BE TRIED SATURDAY

Case Against Joe Stewart Postponed Until Then.

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Connersville, Ind., Jan. 29.—The trial of Joe Stewart, the Rushville colored boy, charged with assault and battery on Frank Robbins, was postponed until Saturday morning. Robbins, who was cut by Stewart, was unable to appear before Mayor Braun this morning and for this reason the case was postponed. Robbins is not badly hurt. The cutting occurred at a colored dance. Stewart alleges that he did not do the cutting.

NATIVE OF RUSH COUNTY IS DEAD

Eli Bass, Well Known Colored Barber, Expires at His Home in Connersville.

IN ONE LOCATION 42 YEARS

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Connersville, Jan. 29.—Eli Bass, 71 years old, one of the most highly respected colored men of this city, and a native of Rush county, is dead at his home here following injuries received last Friday when he was accidentally knocked down by two men in a friendly scuffle. The men accidentally ran into Mr. Bass and in the fall he sustained a fracture of the skull. He died this morning at two o'clock.

Mr. Bass will be remembered by many people in Rushville and Rush county. He was born in Carthage and later moved to Richmond. He located here shortly before the war and has been in the barber business continuously. He had been in business at the corner of Central avenue and Court street for forty-two years. He was a member of the Methodist church, the colored Masons and Knights of Pythias lodges. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

WILL SHUT OFF WATER

Due to a leak in the reservoir of the city plant the water will be shut off Monday night at nine o'clock. It is hoped to make the repairs in one night. The mains will not be drained as the well run by the electric pump will be in operation.

ANOTHER JUROR.

The name of S. L. Newhouse of Center township has been drawn by the jury commissioners to serve on the grand jury in the place of William Cameron of Anderson township. Mr. Cameron has moved from the county and thus it was necessary to draw another name.

$75,000 RANSOM ASKED IN LETTER

Letter Made Public Today Says Lewis Clark, Los Angeles Millionaire is Treated Kindly.

WAS LAST SEEN JANUARY 17

His Hat Found and Led to Belief He Had Been Drowned—Police Are Very Skeptical.

(By United Press.)

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 29.—That Lewis Clark, millionaire, had been kidnapped for a ransom of $75,000 was the information contained in a letter received by Mrs. Clark and signed, "Blackmailers," which was made public today by Chief of Police Sebastian.

Mrs. Clark says that she would pay the money demanded, but she must know first that the ransom was genuine. The letter said that Clark was being well treated, but that the captors must have the $75,000.

The communication instructed the person who received the letter to publish in the newspapers the fact that the ransom would be paid and arrangements would be made for the release of Clark.

On the evening of January 17, Clark saw his wife off on the train and started to walk back to the hotel. He never reached his destination. Several hours later, after a careful search, his hat was found on the sidewalk. It was generally supposed that he had drowned.

The police are skeptical about the ransom letter.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 29.—Mayor Donn M. Roberts and five other leading citizens indicted for election frauds will answer February 16. Circuit Judge Fortune set this date today and gave the attorneys for the defense until February 11 to file a brief in abatement.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 29.—The salary of John C. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was raised by the convention here today from $3,000 to $4,000 a year.

REACTION HAS SPRUNG UP NOW

People of Terre Haute Are Wondering if Anyone Will be Convicted as Result of Grand Jury Work.

ADJOURNMENT IS SUDDEN

Formidable Array of Legal Talent

For Defense Causes Feeling That
State Will Have Big Risk.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 29.—Reaction has set in toward the special grand jury's work in the corrupt elections investigation. Today the people are asking doubtfully will any one be convicted? The adjournment of the grand jury after returning only a comparatively few indictments was the most surprising event of the entire investigation.

A long and formidable array of legal counsel for the indicted men also has inspired a general feeling that the prosecution can hardly cope with the opposition. The announcement of eminent counsel to assist special prosecutor Joseph Roach is being anxiously awaited in reform circles.

Supported by public expressions from Circuit Judge Charles M. Fortune and Roach as well as minority party leaders, the average citizen of Terre Haute believes that the primaries, registrations and elections in 1912 and 1913 were marked by gross frauds. Some leading politicians who were named in printed statements as responsible participants in the frauds escaped the grand jury's sweep.

The record in indictments follows: Mayor Donn M. Roberts, charged in five counts with violation of the election law at the primaries in Taylorville in May, 1912.

Cotton Chase, a red light district politician, indicted with Roberts on three counts.

Mayor Roberts, charged in a sixth indictment with conspiring to falsely register voters. With him on the same charge were named: C. S. Batt, city attorney; Marx Myers, a leading clothing merchant and member of the board of public safety; Gerhardt Moninger, newly elected city councilman and a captain in the state militia, and John Roper, a brewery employee.

William Huffman, member of the Roberts combine in the old council, indicted for permitting the removal of ballots from an election official.

Dr. E. T. Zaring, Grover Smith and James Harris, named in one indictment for an offense the same as Huffman's.

Indictments against three men for trafficking in women in the red light district completed the grand jury's report.

Society News

The Tri Kappa will meet Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the home of Miss Hazel Lytle in East Sixth street.

— * * *

About forty members of the Men's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church had a most enjoyable evening last night at the home of William Helm, corner of Harrison and Third streets. The line was drawn on refreshments and the evening was devoted to impromptu speaking. Especially happy and timely talks were made by the Rev. J. B. Meacham and John P. Moses. The host especially enjoyed the occasion immensely. It has been planned to hold monthly meetings, but the date for the next one, which will be at the home of L. Link's, has not been set.

— * * *

Fourteen guests who attended the announcement party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Wyatt in North Main street last evening were held in suspense all evening and did not learn what they expected until just before they departed.

After the course dinner, when they entered the parlor, they saw a massive cupid cut from card board beautifully painted and carrying a grip which was marked "special." Before the guests left each one was asked to pull a ribbon from the grip, and Miss Jean Bishop of Indianapolis was the one to draw the ribbon bearing the announcement.

She read it to the guests: that Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wyatt announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Georgia Burt Wyatt, to Earl Moore, the wedding to take place some time in March.

The dining room was beautiful. The color scheme of yellow was carried out in every particular. There were no lights except yellow candles on the table, a large one in the center and twelve larger candles around the table which were covered with yellow shades in the shape of roses. A rich mellow light was shed all over the room. The place cards were little epiphs.

The guests included: Mrs. George C. Wyatt, Miss Wanda Wyatt, Mrs. Walter Hubbard, Miss Helen Scott, Miss Henrietta Coleman, Mrs. Derby Green, Miss Hazel Lytle, Miss Catherine Hitt, Miss Norma Smith, Mrs. Warder Wyatt, Miss Georgia Wyatt and Miss Helen U. McNitt of Logansport, Miss Jean Bishop of Indianapolis and Miss Olive Traylor of Connersville.

Amusements

The Princess will show the usual three pictures tonight. The first is a Lubin drama entitled "His Chorus Girl Wife." It is said to tell a dramatic story and is full of human interest. The second is a Vitagraph drama "His Last Fight." Aneta Stewart and Ralph Ince are featured in this one. It is the story of how a girl of great beauty is won by an ex-prize fighter. The last is a Kalem comedy "The Landress and the Lady." Ruth Roland is featured. Tomorrow night a two-reel Biograph "By Man's Law" will be shown.

The Gem will show a two reel Imp drama "Who Killed Olga Carew?" for tonight. It is said to be a thrilling story. It revolves about a photographer, an artist and an adventuress, who yields a peculiar deadening influence over the life of the latter. The other is a Powers comedy entitled "The Doctor's Orders." The Loyal Womens' Bible class of the Main Street Christian church had charge of the theater last night. An extra good program was given and large crowds attended.

WILL HAVE TO SIT UP NIGHTS

Teachers Who Contemplate Examinations This Year Will Find Many New Features.

THAT MAKE TESTS HARDER

Examination Days Will be the Last Saturday of Every Month This Year Until August.

Indications are that those who contemplate the teachers' examinations which begin next Saturday and continue on the last Saturday of each month until August, will have to sit up o' nights to get ready. A number of important changes are made which will make the tests much harder.

The county superintendent is in receipt of a list of rules for the examinations and they show many important changes. Among the most important new features is the fact that for the first time in Indiana questions in agriculture will be offered, but the teacher will not be required to have a license on this topic until January 1, 1915.

Among the changes are:

Three primary questions will be added to each list of common school questions and the applicants for primary licenses will answer the three primary questions and any three of the eight common school questions.

The term "domestic science," used in the school law is not to be interpreted to apply to cooking alone but is used in the sense of household arts or home economics.

As there are schools in which the general problems of domestic science will be taught and not the special phases of cooking or sewing provision has been made for an examination in domestic science as well as in cooking and sewing. Any six of the eight questions in domestic science will meet the requirements for such general domestic science examination, while any three of the eight in domestic science and the three in cooking will answer for the examination in cooking and any three of the eight in domestic science and three in sewing will answer for the examination in sewing. * * While teachers of agriculture must hold licenses of some kind for the year 1914 it is not mandatory that such license shall be in agriculture before Sept. 1, 1915. However, a set of questions has been placed with the supervisors' lists, to provide for any teachers or supervisors who desire to take an examination in that subject. * * The state board has complied with requests from both county and city superintendents for supervisors' examinations each month of the year, and therefore supervisors' lists are included for January and will be found among the lists of each succeeding month.

Local News

Connersville exchanges say that petitions are being circulated there to obtain signatures to call a local option election.

The Republican company has secured the contract to print the bond issue of $20,000 for the city. The ordinance for the bond issue was passed at the last council meeting.

The strong wind today played havoc with everything. It caused a loss of about fifty dollars at the Schrichte building in First street, occupied by the C. E. Cowing & Bro. harness and buggy store. One corner of one of the big plate glass windows had been broken by a ball, but when the wind got a good blow at the glass this morning, it cracked the window from one corner to the other and a new glass will have to be purchased.

Value of Co-operation.

Many of the largest chambers of commerce and board of trades that had for years confined their efforts to city affairs have of late years re-organized or have established departments for the purpose of co-operating with the people on farms near by.

A few years ago these organizations would have scouted the idea that there was a field in which merchants and farmers might profitably work together for the upbuilding of the community. Now, however, the merchant, who often is in fact a farmer, also is as much interested in improving farm crops and farming as is the farmer himself.

Intelligent citizens of all classes have begun to see that, while a large field must be left free for the exercise of individual initiative and enterprise, there are a great many things that must be done by the community as a whole. There may be some selfishness in the merchants' wanting the farmers to raise bigger crops, but the farmers are nevertheless the biggest gainers by the improvement.

The example that merchants have set in helping the farmers to better themselves might well be followed by the farmers in helping the merchants to better themselves. They can do this most directly by buying at home everything they can, and if they can not buy the good, quality or class they want they can best help their community by making their complaints to the merchants themselves. It certainly is a doubtful expedient to send away from home for an article the merchant doesn't carry with out letting him know that he has not stocked goods for which there is a demand in his community.

"I think the organization of a Chamber of Commerce is alright, but I don't like this spasmodic way of doing it. I don't like the revival plan." This was the expression of a business man in Rushville when he was being asked to sign an application for membership to the Chamber of Commerce. Now what are the facts about the "revival way" of organizing anything? Practically every worthy thing accomplished now-a-days is done on the revival plan. And why? This is the busy age and if a thing is worth doing it is worth doing quickly. Why wait for weeks to formulate a plan of action? Most people would become disgusted if the new organization were formed that way, and again, this is to be an organization that is to reflect the energy, the pluck, the get-there spirit of the business men and citizens of a live hustling city, then why not do it and do it quickly?

C. M. Yocum Points to Spiritual Significance of Church Attendance

(By the Rev. C. M. Yocum.)
That many people are unappreciative of the meaning and value of regular attendance on the public worship of the church must be evident to all. The loss to the individual and the church, by reason of this absence, if it could be visualized and actualized in some way so that it could be seen, would be appalling. This loss consists of elements which enter vitally into the life and success of the church, such as diminution in faith, in spiritual power, in biblical knowledge, in religious enthusiasm, in finances and in the aggregation of strength which comes from numbers. What are some of the benefits which result from a faithful and conscientious attendance in public worship?
The very mingling together, face to face with the best people of the church and community in fraternal intercourse in the house of God, where all meet on a common level, has a hallowed influence which is easily underestimated. It is refreshing to drink of the cup of fellowship. Not only do we meet with each other in the Lord's house, we meet also with God. A sense of His presence cultivates the spirit of reverence. It is good to be separated the busy marts of commercial activity and reverently to bow before our Lord. The house of God is called the house of prayer. Of course we can pray at home but there is a power in public worship—in joining a number of hearts together in common prayer and voices in common hymns of praise—which does not attach to private devotions.
Who can estimate the value to the soul of participation in those memorial emblems which Jesus instituted for his disciples, and by which he wishes to be remembered? Every time we approach the observance of the Lord's supper we are called to repentance and to a renewal of our devotion to Him and to all higher and nobler things. Those who neglect this service do a great injustice to their spiritual natures and impoverish their own souls.
Faithful church attendance cannot but enrich the individual life and enlarge the Kingdom of God.

CALL ON JUDGE BLAIR FOOT WAS BADLY MASHED

Judge George Gray Was in Shelbyville Yesterday.
Barton Caldwell Sustained Painful Injury at Pennsylvania Station.

According to the Shelbyville News, Judge George L. Gray of Connersville was in Shelbyville yesterday calling on Judge Blair. Although the purpose of his visit was not given out it is naturally supposed that his call had to do with the story recently published in the Liberty Express in which charges were made against Judge Gray and in which it was alleged that he made an effort to induce Judge Blair to render a decision favoring him on a case that was being tried in the Rush circuit court. Judge Gray has not yet replied to the story and it is supposed that he was in Shelbyville for this purpose. A statement from the Connersville judge is looked for any time.

CAN'T EVEN GIVE CHILDREN AWAY

Widow is Pauper and Can't Keep Them but They Refuse to Stay Away From Mother.

PENSION CLUB ORGANIZED

(By United Press.)

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 29.—Mrs. Alice Kelly, widow, can't give her three children away. She tried. They cried and were inconsolable.

Mrs. Kelly can't keep her children unless she has an income. She is a pauper from sickness. She scrubbed and took in washing to keep her little brood together until typhoid fever made the tub too hard for her.

Out of this dilemma has grown Mothers' Pension Club No. 1 of Evansville. The good women of this city are each pledging a small sum monthly for Mrs. Kelly. Mrs. J. H. Conn has taken the lead in the work.

"A mother's care is everything. Nothing can take the place of her love—and Mrs. Kelly's children love her," said Mrs. Conn. "There ought to be a mother's pension law for such cases. But there isn't, in Indiana, so let's form a pension for Mrs. Kelly."

"Must Mrs. Kelly give away her children because she can not earn enough when right here in this beautiful city there are men or institutions who have more of this world's goods than they can count?" asked J. G. Birdsall, another contributor to Mrs. Kelly's pension. He asked for twenty men to come forward and pledge 50c a week as long as the family needed their help.

CORNER GANG IS THE PITFALL

General Secretary of Indianapolis Children's Association Talks of Remedies For Boys' Habits.

LEADER ALWAYS DARING ONE

Indianapolis, Jan. 29.—The corner gang is "the pitfall which above all others starts boys in the wrong direction," according to Frank D. Loomis, general secretary of the Children's Association of Indianapolis.

"The gang is born of two elements—a few idle boys and a loafing place and, while the leader of the gang is never formally elected, there is sure to be one boy who occupies such a relationship to the rest. The leader occupies his position because at first he holds sway over the rest of the boys by daring to do things which the others are afraid or ashamed to do. The leader, thereof, often is the worst boy in the gang."

"If parents generally could but appreciate the grief that may come from a disregard of the evil influences of the gang, I am sure that the remedy would be swift and certain."

ALWAYS HAS A WAITING LIST

Chicago's Nickle Hotel is the Most Popular Hostelry in the "Windy City."

THERE ARE 95 PRIVATE ROOMS

Clothing is Thoroughly Fumigated and Ventilated Before it is Returned to Lodger.

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Jan., 29.—The "price of a beer" will work wonders at the Rufus Dawes Memorial Hotel, recently opened to the public and a clientele made up largely of members of the great army of the unemployed. For a single nickel, you can get a bed for the night, a bath, a shine, a shave and have your clothing fumigated. A night shirt is provided free of charge for every lodger.

In the hotel restaurant, another nickel will move the following assortment of food your way—a beef stew with potatoes and vegetables, a cup of coffee with milk and two fat rolls. If you want a change in menu, you can ask the gentlemanly waiter to bring you a bowl of soup instead of stew. For ten cents you can get a "private room", but according to W. D. Taylor, manager, few of the regular guests squander a dime on such a luxury unless the dormitory rooms are occupied.

The new hotel was built by Charles G. Dawes, Chicago banker, as a memorial to his son, who lost his life on Lake Geneva, Wis. The original investment was $100,000. Receipts thus far have run far below operating expenses, but Dawes said today he "guessed he could stand the strain."

There are 95 "private rooms" in the new hotel, and two dormitories, accommodating 504 men, giving the place a total capacity of 599 guests. Walls and floors are of concrete and are washed each day by powerful streams of water to prevent accumulation of dirt and vermin. The guest at the Dawes hotel plasters his name on the register with all the dignity of a guest at the Hotel La Salle. If he deposits a dime for a "private room" he is given a key; if his is to be a nickel night, he is assigned to one of the dormitories where double-decker beds line the rooms. An attendant escorts the new arrival to the bathroom and gives him a check when he surrenders his clothes. The clothes are taken to the fumigating room, while the lodger rid's himself of surplus dirt under a shower. Another attendant brings him a "nightie" and he is put to bed between sheets—real sheets fresh from the laundry—while his head reposes on a pillow covered by a snow-white slip.

In the morning the clothing, thoroughly fumigated and ventilated, is returned to the lodger. An attendant hands him a safety razor, a shaving brush and a cake of soap. Shaving is not compulsory; neither is the guest forced to use the little cake of shoe-blackening handed him, but all around are cards reminding him that the "spruced-up", man stands the best chance of landing the job. "We have been 'full to the roof' since the place opened", said Manager Taylor, who studied sociology before he took the job. "Mr. Dawes is satisfied, and I am satisfied that the experiment is proving a success. All some of these fellows need is a chance to clean up and look like men when they search for jobs." Hogan's "flop house", the municipal lodging house and other hotels that catered to the "down and outs", report a big slump in business since the opening of the Dawes hotel.

COMING STATE CONVENTION

Potentialities of Democratic Situation Being Discussed.

Indianapolis, Jan. 29.—The political pot is beginning to boil and about the lobbies of the hotels where men who do things in Indiana politics are wont to gather there is much discussion of the possibilities of the coming Democratic state convention, which will be the first to put a state ticket in the field.

In these informal confabs the probable personnel of that ticket, of course, is the chief topic of discussion, and it is a matter of comment that in the discussion of the various candidacies, no name is oftener heard than that of George Macomber of Danville, treasurer of Hendricks county, who is a candidate for the nomination to the office of state treasurer, subject to the decision of the coming convention.

Mr. Macomber is a Normal school graduate and for a number of years was connected with the educational department of the Indiana boys' school at Plainfield, later assuming the superintendency of a similar institution in Missouri. He was elected treasurer of Hendricks county in 1910, being the first Democrat to hold that position. In 1912 he was re-elected.

SPINNEY SIGNS TWO MEN

Gets Players for Connorsville Team.
Keifel is One.

Connorsville evidently is preparing for a winning baseball team the coming season. According to the Cincinnati Enquirer today, the management of the team there has requested John Spinney to sign Pitcher Bacon and Catcher Keifel. Connorsville fans believe they will make a great battery. The pitcher is not known to local fans, but Keifel is and is considered the best catcher that was on the local grounds last season. He played here with the Y. M. I. team and is sure a real catcher. The players in and around Cincinnati are going fast, but it is not known whether the local management has signed any or not, or whether there will even be a team here next season or not.

ROMINE TURNS IN SIGNED CONTRACT

Will Get Tryout With Indianapolis Association Team Making Second One Under Manager.

NO DISAPPOINTMENT HERE

No one here ever took the talk of Frank Romine playing ball here the coming season seriously and if the management ever had a conversation with Romine regarding his coming here, they sure fell for a lot of kidding, for he has signed with the Indianapolis American Association team at $300 a month. Naturally this is a little too steep for Rushville as $300 a year would have been pretty good.

But the straight of it is that his signed contract was sent to Manager Hendricks of the Indians. This will be his second tryout under Hendricks. During the 1909 season Romine was given a tryout by Hendricks at Ft. Wayne. He was turned over to the Maysville team of the Blue Grass league and later picked up by Cincinnati. Last season Romine pitched great ball for Newcastle and local fans would like to see him make good with the Indianapolis team.

CLERKS OF COURT MAY KEEP 10 CENTS

State Board of Accounts Makes a Ruling as Regards Hunting and Fishing Licenses.

ACT OF 1911 NOT REPEALED

The State Board of Accounts has decided that county clerks may keep ten cents from each resident hunting and fishing license fee of $1 they collect. The question had arisen in various parts of the State in regard to a law, passed by the 1913 assembly, which some had thought repealed the provision in the law of 1911 permitting clerks to keep ten cents for each license sold. It was contended also that the 1913 fee and salary law affected the hunting license fee.

Field examiners throughout the state, who are examining the office of county clerks, will be told in letters sent out from the board of the board's ruling on this class of fees. In several counties field examiners had been contending that the clerks were not entitled to the fee. Questions impelled the State Board to begin an investigation. George W. Miles, commissioner of fisheries and game, said that although the act of the 1913 legislature might seem to indicate a possible repeal of the 1911 provision, allowing the fees, no such intent was in the action of the last legislature.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Rear Admiral Vreeland of the general board of the navy started members of the house committee on naval affairs when he declared that in case of hostilities with Japan it would be comparatively easy for the far eastern power to take the Philippines and possibly land its troops in the territories of Hawaii and Alaska.

Representative Sherley of Kansas Scores Alarmist For Suggesting War With Japan Even.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 29.—President Wilson is insistent that not less than two new battleships shall be built next year. Secretary of the Navy Daniels told the House naval affairs committee this today.

He did not discuss the situation as bearing in the remotest part on the government's naval building program.

The naval position at present should cause no special alarm, Representative Sherley of Kansas told the House committee today in scoring the alarmists. Taking a fling at Rear Admiral Vreeland for suggesting yesterday a war with Japan, the representative declared the Corregidor Island in the Philippines is so fortified at present that it could withstand an attack for six months.

Secretary Daniels thought the navy policy of the government should be taken out of politics. This government is not in mad rivalry with the powers, he declared, but Congress should authorize the expenditure of sufficient money for the government to maintain its prestige on the seas.

The construction by the government of an armor plate plant was urged by Daniels.

HAS RIGHT TO SELL ARMS

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 29.—The story that this government is on the verge of a serious friction with Japan as a result of the Mexican question was declared to be unfounded by the President this afternoon. The President told callers that it was absolutely false that the Japanese government was supplying arms to Huerta's forces.

Japanese commercial houses and commercial houses of other nations are selling arms and ammunition to Huerta, but the President told his callers they had a perfect right to do so under the provisions of international law, and even if this government did want to object, it could not do so.

Jury Acquits Debolt.

Anderson, Ind., Jan. 29.—A jury in the circuit court found Alois Debolt not guilty of having stolen $500 worth of jewelry and diamonds from Mrs. Harting, his former landlady at Elwood. Even more pleased than Debolt at the result of the verdict was his sweetheart, Miss Josephine St. John of Paris, Ill., who sat by his side during the three days of the trial. It is said that the wedding of the young couple will take place soon.

CHAPTER V.

Precautions.

BUT it wasn't apoplexy. It was Parks who reassured us when he came hurrying back a minute later with a glass of water in one hand and a small phial in the other.

"He has these spells," he said. "It's a kind of vertigo. Give him a whiff of this. He'll be all right pretty soon, though I never saw him quite so bad."

"We can't leave him lying here on the floor," said Godfrey.

"There's a couch seat in the music room," Parks suggested, and the three of us bore the still unconscious man to it.

Then Godfrey and I sat down and waited while he gasped his way back to life.

"Though he can't really tell us much," Godfrey observed. "In fact, I doubt if he'll be willing to tell anything. But his face, when he looked at the picture, told us all we need to know."

This reminded me of the photograph out of the pocket into which I had slipped it and looked at it again.

"Where did you get it?" I asked.

"The police photographer made some copies. This is one of them."

"But what made you suspect that the two women were the same?"

"I don't just know," answered Godfrey reflectively. "They were both French, and Rogers spoke of the red lips; somehow it seemed probable. Hello—our friend is coming around. How do you feel?"

"Pretty weak," Rogers answered, almost in a whisper. "What sent me on?" Then his face turned purple, and I thought he was going off again.

But after a moment's heavy breathing he lay quiet. "I remember now," he said. "Let me see that picture again."

I passed it to him. His hand was trembling so he could hardly take it, but I saw he was struggling desperately to control himself.

"Do you know her?" Godfrey asked.

"Never saw her before," Rogers muttered. "When I first looked at her I thought I knew her, but it ain't the same woman."

"Do you mean to say," Godfrey demanded sternly, "that that is not the woman who called on Mr. Vantine tonight?"

Again Rogers shook his head.

"Oh, no," he protested; "it's not the same woman at all. This one is younger."

Godfrey made no reply, but he sat down and looked at Rogers, and Rogers lay and gazed at the picture, and gradually his face softened as though at some tender memory.

"Come, Rogers," I urged at last; "you'd better tell us all you know. If this is the woman don't hesitate to say so."

"I've told you all I know, Mr. Lester," said Rogers, but he did not meet my eyes. "And I'm feeling pretty bad. I think I'd better be getting to bed."

"Yes, that's best," agreed Godfrey promptly. "Parks will help you," and he held out his hand for the photograph.

Rogers relinquished it with evident reluctance. "Good night, gentlemen," he said weakly and shuffled away, leaning heavily on Parks' shoulder.

"Well!" said I, looking at Godfrey.

"He's lying, of course. We've got to find out why he's lying and bring it home to him. But it's getting late. I must get down to the office. One word, Lester—be sure Rogers doesn't give you the slip."

"I'll have him looked after," I promised. "But I fancy he'll be afraid to run away. Besides, it is possible he's telling the truth. I don't believe any woman had anything to do with either death."

"Who did, then?" asked Godfrey.

"Nobody."

"You mean they both suicided in that abnormal way?"

"No, it wasn't suicide—they were killed—but not by a human being—at least, not directly." I felt that I was floundering hopelessly and stopped. "I can't tell you now, Godfrey," I pleaded. "I haven't had time to think it out. You've got enough for one day."

"Yes," he smiled; "I've got enough for one day. And now goodnight. Parks happily I'll look in on you about midnight, on my way home, if I get through by then."

I was already longing for bed and there remained so much to be done. But he, after a day which I knew had been a hard one, and with a many column story still to write, was apparently as fresh and eager as ever.

"All right," I agreed. "If you see a light, come up. If there isn't any light I'll be in bed, and I'll kill you if you wake me."

"Conditions accepted," he laughed, as I opened the door for him.

Parks joined me as I turned back into the house after Godfrey left.

"I got Rogers to bed, sir," he said. "He'll be all right in the morning. But he's a queer duck."

"He's been with Mr. Vantine about five years. I don't know much about him. He's a silent kind of fellow, keeping to himself a good deal and sort of brooding over things. But he did his work all right, except once in a while when he keeled over like he did tonight."

"Parks," I said suddenly, "I'm going to ask you a question. You know that Mr. Vantine was a friend of mine, and I thought a great deal of him. Now, what with this story Rogers tells and one or two other things, there is talk of a woman. Is there any foundation for talk of that kind?"

"No, sir," said Parks emphatically. "I've been Mr. Vantine's valet for eight years and more, and in all that time he has never been mixed up with a woman in any shape or form. I always fancied he'd loved a lady who died."

"Thank you, Parks," I said with a sigh of relief. "I've been through so much today that I felt I couldn't endure that. And now—"

"Beg pardon, sir," said a voice at my elbow. "We have everything ready, sir."

I turned with a start to see a little, clean shaven man.

"The undertaker's assistant, sir," explained Parks, seeing my look of astonishment. "He came while you and Mr. Godfrey were in the music room."

"Where shall we put the body, sir?" asked the man.

"Why not leave it where it is?" I asked impatiently.

"Very good, sir," said he, and presently the undertaker and his assistant took themselves off, to my intense relief.

"And now, Parks," I began, "there is something I want to say to you. Let go somewhere and sit down."

A few minutes later we were sitting opposite each other in the room where Vantine and I had sat not many hours before. I liked Parks, and I felt he could be trusted. At any rate, I had to take the risk.

"Now, Parks," I began again, "what I have to say to you is very serious, and I want you to keep it to yourself. I know that you were devoted to Mr. Vantine. I may as well tell you that he has remembered you in his will. I am sure you are willing to do anything in your power to help solve the mystery of his death. I have a sort of idea how his death came about. The mystery, whatever it is, is in the anteroom where the bodies were found or in the room next to it where the furniture is. Now, I am going to lock up those rooms, and I want you to see that nobody enters them without your knowledge."

"Not very likely that anybody will want to enter them, sir," and Parks laughed a grim little laugh.

"I am not so sure of that," I dissented, speaking very seriously. "In fact, I am of the opinion that there is somebody who wants to enter those rooms very badly. I am going to make it your business to keep him out and to capture him if you catch him trying to get in."

"Trust me for that, sir," said Parks promptly. "What is it you want me to do?"

"I want you to put a cot in the hallway outside the door of the anteroom and sleep there tonight. Tomorrow I will decide what further precautions are necessary."

"Very good, sir," said Parks. "I'll get the cot up at once."

"There is one thing more," I went on. "I have given the coroner my personal assurance that none of the servants will leave the house until after the inquest. I suppose I can rely on them?"

"Oh, yes, sir. I'll see they understand how important it is."

"Rogers, especially," I added, looking at him.

"I understand, sir," said Parks.

"Very well. And now let us go down and lock up those rooms."

They were still ablaze with light, but both of us faltered a little, I think, on the threshold of the anteroom, for in the middle of the floor stood a stretcher, and on it was an object covered with a sheet, its outlines horribly suggestive. But I took myself in hand and entered. Parks followed me and closed the door.

The anteroom had two windows, and the room beyond, which was a corner one, had three. All of them were locked, but a pane of glass seemed to me an absurdly fragile barrier against any one who really wished to enter.

"Aren't there some wooden shutters for these windows?" I asked.

"Yes, sir; they were taken down yesterday and put in the basement. Shall I get them?"

"I think you'd better," I said. "Will you need any help?"

"No, sir; they're not heavy. If you'll wait here, you can snap the bolts into place when I lift them up from the outside."

"Very well," I agreed, and Parks hurried away.

I entered the inner room and stopped before the Boule cabinet. There was a certain air of arrogance about it, as it stood there in that blaze of light; something threatening, too; something sinister and deadly—

There was a rattle at the window, and I saw Parks lifting one of the shutters into place. I threw up the sash, and pressed the heavy bolts carefully into their sockets, then closed the sash and locked it. The two other windows were secured in their turn, and with a last look about the room, I turned out the lights. The anteroom windows were soon shuttered in the same way. Then, before extinguishing the lights I approached that silent figure on the stretcher, lifted the sheet and looked for the last time upon the face of my dead friend. It was no longer staring and terrible, but calm and peaceful as in sleep—almost smiling. With wet eyes and contracted throat, I covered the face again, turned out the lights and left the room.

A sudden thought occurred to me. "Parks," I said, "is it true that there is a burglar alarm on all the windows?"

"Yes, sir. It rings a bell in Mr. Vantine's bedroom and another in mine and sends in a call to the police."

"Why didn't it work when I opened those windows just now?" I demanded.

Parks laughed.

"Because I threw off the switch, sir," he explained, "when I came out to get the shutters. The switch is in a little iron box on the wall just back of the stairs, sir. It's one of my duties to turn it on every night before I go to bed."

I breathed a sigh of relief.

"Is it on again now?"

"It certainly is, sir. After what you told me I'd not be likely to forget it."

"You'd better have a weapon handy, too," I suggested.

"I have a revolver, sir."

"That's good. And don't hesitate to use it. I'm going home. I'm dead tired."

To be continued.

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."

—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."

—Mrs. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

If the Legislature Would Pass a Law---

That every vehicle user in Rush County had to buy his vehicles where he could get the best bargain for his money and leave it to the majority of vehicle users in the county to decide, you would have to buy your next one from us or break the law. There is no question about this, as the majority has already decided we give them more value for their money than they can get elsewhere and have backed up their judgment by buying their vehicles from us. The road service you can get out of one of our buggies makes it an easy proposition for us to sell a customer the second time and also makes it easy for us to sell his neighbors and friends as our vehicle users are always satisfied and make us customers. We still have a few of those nice, roomy Storm Buggies in stock and also have a sample of our 1915 Storm Buggy that you want to see. It is the first Storm Buggy ever built that has sliding doors that can not rattle and also has several new features you want to see. Bring your vehicle business to us no matter what it is and we will take care of it.

New Resident Pays
Compliments to
Local Merchants

A new resident of Rushville, whom we will call Smith, because that is not his name, just recently had occasion to have dealings with a number of Rushville concerns.

Smith built himself a house recently, and as he expresses it, "It is some house." He made a careful study of the local concerns, and below he tells of the people, from whom he bought.

"I walked into the Robbins-Nipp Insurance & Real Estate Office one day. They picked out a lot in one of your beautiful residence districts, and I bought it at a surprisingly low price. They had no trouble in selling a fire insurance policy in one of the many strong companies that they represent. Robbins-Nipp Agency sell insurance that really insures.

The Case Lumber Yard gave me lowest prices on my lumber, and showed me that they had facilities for turning out the work that I wanted, with the result that they got my contract. Mr. Grindle handled my order in record time.

John S. Beale, our leading contractor, naturally got the plumbing and heating job. Mr. Beale has a new, large and roomy building, "on the Square," and he can handle anything at all in this line. For equipment and facilities, I hand the blue ribbon to Mr. Beale.

I went to see Ed Crosby when I got ready for my painting and decorating. He took me out and allowed me to inspect some of his work, and now I am a Crosby booster. Quality and price considered, Crosby's work is the best I have ever seen.

I had my slating and tinning done by Walter Perkins, who has his office at Frazee's Lumber Yard. Mr. Perkins is an expert in his line, and I do not look for any trouble from leaking roofs. For his good work, his price was very reasonable.

I had the Mahin Electric Co. install all of my electric fixtures. Mr. Mahin has had a number of years experience in the electric line, and he is an authority in that work. I left everything to him, to use his best judgment, and he installed fixtures which I am sure are the best made. All of my light globes are the famous Fostoria Mazdas.

I always buy good things when I buy, because I figure that they are the cheapest in the end. That is the reason I went to Fred A. Caldwell to purchase my house furnishings. Mr. Caldwell carries some splendid lines of furniture, and has as complete an assortment of designs as the average big town store.

In buying a piano, we decided we could get more satisfaction, and many pleasant hours with a Kimball Player-Piano than with any other. It brings to our home the highest type of music, and it combines all the beautiful features of tone, touch and artistic finish that characterize the Kimball Player-Piano. The Boxley Piano Co., are the Kimball factory representatives in Rushville and vicinity.

Mrs. Smith has one great hobby, and that is pretty chinaware and silverware, and Kennard's is where she gets just what she wants.

We could not have done better at Indianapolis. Kennard's also carry the largest line of watches, diamonds, jewelry in Rushville.

Mrs. Smith buys her nicknacks, toys, cups and saucers at Bell's Red Front store and Bazaar. Mr. Bell carries everything, so it is only natural that he gets the largest business. The Red Front Store carries as complete a line as the trust 5 and 10 cent stores.

We brought some of our carpets, rugs, and curtains with us, and they were sadly in need of cleaning. We sent them to Ball & Bebout and they came back, looking like new. I believe that a number of housewives in Rushville are not aware of the fact that this concern thoroughly dry cleans house furnishings, besides the usual pressing and cleaning of clothing.

My own clothes I buy from Betker's. He carries the latest pattern any styles, and is our leading haberdasher. Betker is the local representative of Ed V. Price Co. Who's your tailor?

Our drug store supplies we get at the Penslar Drug Store, F. B. Johnson & Co. They have a most complete line of drugs, sundries and toilet articles.

For shoes, well, there is no place like Bodine's. Mr. Bodine handles Queen Quality, Keith's Konquerer, and Dr. Reed's cushion shoes.

MINISTER GIVES
SERMON ON BOOZE

Made Largest Number of Conversions
and Collected Largest Amount of Money at Revival.

NO VALUE IN BEER AS FOOD

(By United Press.)

Marion, Ind., Jan. 29.—"Booze" was the subject of the Rev. Milford Lyon's revival talk which made the largest number of conversions and collected the largest amount of money since his remarkable revival campaign opened in this city more than two weeks ago.

"A giant monopoly, the liquor traffic, has assumed such gigantic proportions as to imperil the very existence of our nation," said Rev. Lyon. "The abolition of the liquor traffic is the greatest issue before the American people today."

"According to the most conservative estimate there were spent for liquor last year in this country $1,675,000,000.00."

"This was more than four times the amount spent for religion and education."

"We have heard a great deal in periods of depression of over-production. The difficulty has been under consumption. People have wasted their money in riotous living and it has been lost to honest and legitimate channels."

"If every gallon of intoxicating beverage were destroyed I declare without hesitation that the world would not be one whit poorer. Brewers are declaring in flaming advertisements the great value of beer for food. The rate of mortality among brewers is almost twice as much as that of any other occupation. Baron Liebig, the German chemist, has said that if a man drinks 10 quarts daily of the Bavarian beer for an entire year he would not get as much nourishment as is contained in a pound loaf of bread."

Rev. Lyons took up every argument against prohibition, giving a bitter answer to each. He said that the liquor business was "worse than white slavery and stealing."

FLORIDA LANDS
MANY "SUCKERS"

Columbus Minister Says This Variety
of Fish Outnumbers Any Other

WARNS AGAINST BUYING SOIL

(By United Press.)

Columbus, Ind., Jan. 29.—"Suckers" is the mildest term applied by Rev. Lewis King, a local pastor wintering in Florida, to the northerners and other outsiders who buy Florida farm lands unseen.

"Florida is not a poor man's paradise as advertised," said Rev. King. "Florida can boast of many varieties of fish, but none can compare to the northern 'suckers.' These human suckers find themselves hooked and landed and financially stranded on the sand wastes or among the saw grass wastes of Florida."

"Let me warn you that if you are determined to come to Florida and enjoy its genial sunshine and want to farm a little 'on the side,' to pay expenses, come and see for yourself. Be careful not to land ankle deep in white sand or neck deep in a cypress swamp."

WORKERS SHOW A BIG INCREASE

Twenty-five Members, Bringing Total up to Seventy-Five, Added to Chamber of Commerce.

TEAMS OUT THIS AFTERNOON

Noonday Luncheon Arouses Good Spirit and Crowd Increases—More Coming Out Tomorrow.

Twenty-five new members were chalked up on the score board today and as many membership pledges were signed. This brings the total up to seventy-five, and with present prospects, the membership should boom daily with increased vigor.

A greater interest in the campaign for the Chamber of Commerce was shown today than has been since the organization was started. The noonday luncheon today was replete with enthusiasm and the workers started forth at a few minutes after one with renewed vigor.

Four teams of men were at work this afternoon and it is safe to estimate that they will boost the membership materially by tonight. The noonday luncheon feature has been bringing the workers in closer touch and they have discussed the plans man to man with candor.

James E. Watson was present at the luncheon today and made a few remarks concerning the organization work which is going forward so promisingly today. He expressed hearty co-operation with the plan.

"There isn't any argument against a comprehensive organization like this," said Mr. Watson. "No one can offer any justification for not joining in a movement of this sort. It is wide in its prospective and it has the best interests of the community embodied in its make-up."

"Neither is the question that the county seat towns are declining because of the trend toward the larger cities open to argument. The statistics are convincing enough to me that such a thing does exist. It is up to the towns like Rushville to organize and prepare to stop the movement in so far as this town itself is concerned.

"There is no doubt but that the community spirit can be aroused by such an organization. That is what we in Rushville can do. We can get it all by joining together. I know that the people who have not been disposed to look favorably at this organization will change their opinion once they get in touch with all of you workers who are spending your time at it."

The noonday luncheons have aroused a fine feeling among the men who are interested in the movement and they will be continued so long as the organization is being perfected. A number of men who were not present today have promised to come out tomorrow and devote some time to the work.

FAIR BOARD MEETS FEB. 2

Will Make up Premium List For Next Annual Exhibit Here.

The Rush county fair board will meet in the office of the secretary, J. Q. Thomas, the first Monday in February, which is the second day of the month, to make out the premium lists for the next annual exhibit. A full attendance of the board is anticipated as a great deal of interest is being shown not only by the officials, but by many other citizens.

HAS M. J. OGDON ARRESTED

Jesse Smith Files Charge Before Squire Kratzer.

M. J. Ogdon will be tried tomorrow afternoon before Squire Kratzer on an assault and battery charge. The affidavit was filed by Jesse Smith, who alleges that Ogdon pulled him off a bicycle. It will be remembered that Ogdon had Smith arrested on a provoke charge and now Smith comes back and says that if he provoked Ogdon then Ogdon committed assault and battery on him. The trial is set for two o'clock. The case against Smith was heard yesterday.

TWO MORE CASES UP BEFORE MAYOR

Charged With Refusing to Render Aid to Officer—Special Judge Appointed in One.

OTHER UNDER ADVISEMENT

Cleve Plummer and John Swanington were arraigned before Mayor Behout this morning on the charge of refusing to render assistance to an officer. It was alleged that the two men refused to aid policeman Hardin, who was taking Joe and John Moran to jail following the clean up on the Tyner tailor shop. Frank J. Hall appeared for Plummer and asked for a change of judge. Mayor Behout appointed Gates Sexton to hear this case. Swanington stood trial. The only witness against him was Hardin who testified that he appealed to Swanington and Plummer to help and that they refused. Swanington and Plummer told a different story. They said the policeman called for help but did not call out their names. Mayor Behout took the case under advisement. The case against Plummer will probably be tried tomorrow afternoon.

ACTION HELD UP BY REMONSTRANCE

It is Filed Against County Line Road at Joint Session of Rush and Shelby Commissioners.

MEET TO APPROVE REPORTS

The Rush county board of commissioners yesterday went to Shelbyville to meet in joint session with the Shelby county commissioners to approve the report of the engineers and viewers of the Joseph Redenbough et al. county line road, but they returned home last night with their purpose unaccomplished, because a remonstrance was filed against the building of the road.

The remonstrance was filed with the Shelby county auditor some few days ago and was presented to the meeting yesterday. The joint body set Monday, February 9th for hearing the remonstrance and nothing can be done further on the arrangements for the building of the road until the merits of the remonstrance are tested out.

The road is on the line between Liberty township, Shelby county, and Orange township, Rush county.

Unusual Temperatures and Warm Atmosphere Make Some People Think Spring Has Really Come.

AUTOS ARE BEING OILED UP

Farmers Are Getting Out Plows, But Fear That Damage May Be Done if Cold Snap Appears.

SNOWY BLASTS DUE.

(By United Press.) Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 29.—The summer weather Indiana has enjoyed this week will be changed into wintry blasts by tonight, according to the cold wave prediction issued by the weather bureau here today.

If anyone should happen to doubt that spring is not here in earnest, for the present at least, he should consult a few Rushville merchants, who are telling stories of the unusual demand for this season.

Dealers who handle seeds or garden tools say that calls have been numerous which indicates that many persons are planning to make garden already. It is reported that a number of back yards have been spaded up with a view to doing some planting at the earliest possible date.

Unprecedented temperature for years was hung up yesterday and today when the mercury soared above the sixty station. The weather man promised rain today, and about noon the skies clouded, but no rain put in its appearance here.

From nearly every township in the county come the reports that farmers are plowing and are getting their ground in readiness for the spring crops. The balmy atmosphere at this time of the year is out of the ordinary, but according to the weather predictions, will not continue long. Several severe storms accompanied by rain and sleet are forecasted for February, and if these predictions are true, the seeds and garden tools which were purchased early can be laid away for several weeks.

The weather conditions are very comfortable, but are most unseasonable. They are not at all satisfactory to the merchants who expected to sell heavy winter goods this month but if the forecasts prove correct there will be a lively demand for heavy overcoats, ear protectors and felt boots before the coming month has advanced far.

During the last week quite a number of automobiles have been inspected and oiled and put in service. Local garage men say that they have all the work they can do for several weeks and attribute the rush to the warm weather, as many owners of cars have been reminded that spring will soon be here and want their machines ready for the first favorable weather.

Farmers are especially interested in the weather predictions because of the growing wheat. Many days of this April weather will cause the wheat to grow rapidly and it is feared that it will reach such an advanced stage that it will be injured if a severe cold snap should come in February or March. The farmers say that thus far the wheat is in excellent condition and would stand snow and sleet without being damaged.

Fruit growers also predict a good year unless the warm weather prevailed for a long period and is followed by a sudden drop in temperature. Peach orchards are being watched closely, as they are easily injured by a sudden change in temperature. An orchardist stated that the buds on his trees had not showed

Rushville Audience Hears of New Methods Used in Municipalities Over Country.

W. K. STEWART GIVES LECTURE

Rev. W. C. Wicks of Indianapolis, Noted as Lecturer Will be Next in Series.

Some excellent ideas on city government were advanced in the lecture given by W. K. Stewart of Indianapolis at the court house assembly room last night. Mr. Stewart knew whereof he spoke, because he has a very wide experience in this particular phase, having traveled all over Europe with the special intent of studying the various forms of municipal government.

Mr. Stewart discussed intelligently the commission form of government and the managerial form of government to the delight and instruction of the audience. It was the most thoughtful and careful explanation of these two advanced methods in municipalities that the Rushville people at the meeting had ever heard or read.

This was the second of a series of free lectures which are being given under the auspices of the library commission and the third will be held at an early date. The Rev. W. C. Wicks of Indianapolis, who has a wide reputation as a lecturer will speak.

NEWCASTLE WAS DEFEATED

Close Game Went to Carthage Last Night.

The Carthage Independents defeated the fast Newcastle team last night at Carthage, 29 to 21. The game was the best seen on the Carthage floor this season and was as close as the score indicates. Although the Newcastle team at no time had a lead, a score was handed the Carthage team more than once. The first half ended with Carthage in the lead, 12 to 5. Newcastle took a brace in the last period and at one time came near tying up the count as the score stood 23 to 21 in favor of Carthage. In the last few minutes Carthage played desperately and held Newcastle safe. John Johnson, the Morristown boy, who plays with Carthage was the star of the game.

Case Against Joe Stewart Postponed Until Then.

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Connersville, Ind., Jan. 29.—The trial of Joe Stewart, the Rushville colored boy, charged with assault and battery on Frank Robbins, was postponed until Saturday morning. Robbins, who was cut by Stewart, was unable to appear before Mayor Braun this morning and for this reason the case was postponed. Robbins is not badly hurt. The cutting occurred at a colored dance. Stewart alleges that he did not do the cutting.

NATIVE OF RUSH COUNTY IS DEAD

Eli Bass, Well Known Colored Barber, Expires at His Home in Connersville.

IN ONE LOCATION 42 YEARS

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Connersville, Jan. 29.—Eli Bass, 71 years old, one of the most highly respected colored men of this city, and a native of Rush county, is dead at his home here following injuries received last Friday when he was accidentally knocked down by two men in a friendly scuffle. The men accidentally ran into Mr. Bass and in the fall he sustained a fracture of the skull. He died this morning at two o'clock.

Mr. Bass will be remembered by many people in Rushville and Rush county. He was born in Carthage and later moved to Richmond. He located here shortly before the war and has been in the barber business continuously. He had been in business at the corner of Central avenue and Court street for forty-two years. He was a member of the Methodist church, the colored Masons and Knights of Pythias lodges. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Due to a leak in the reservoir of the city plant the water will be shut off Monday night at nine o'clock. It is hoped to make the repairs in one night. The mains will not be drained as the well run by the electric pump will be in operation.

ANOTHER JUROR.

The name of S. L. Newhouse of Center township has been drawn by the jury commissioners to serve on the grand jury in the place of William Cameron of Anderson township. Mr. Cameron has moved from the county and thus it was necessary to draw another name.

$75,000 RANSOM ASKED IN LETTER

Letter Made Public Today Says Lewis Clark, Los Angeles Millionaire is Treated Kindly.

WAS LAST SEEN JANUARY 17

His Hat Found and Led to Belief He Had Been Drowned—Police Are Very Skeptical.

(By United Press.)

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 29.—That Lewis Clark, millionaire, had been kidnapped for a ransom of $75,000 was the information contained in a letter received by Mrs. Clark and signed, "Blackmailers," which was made public today by Chief of Police Sebastian.

Mrs. Clark says that she would pay the money demanded, but she must know first that the ransom was genuine. The letter said that Clark was being well treated, but that the captors must have the $75,000.

The communication instructed the person who received the letter to publish in the newspapers the fact that the ransom would be paid and arrangements would be made for the release of Clark.

On the evening of January 17, Clark saw his wife off on the train and started to walk back to the hotel. He never reached his destination. Several hours later, after a careful search, his hat was found on the sidewalk. It was generally supposed that he had drowned.

The police are skeptical about the ransom letter.

REACTION HAS SPRUNG UP NOW

People of Terre Haute Are Wondering if Anyone Will be Convicted as Result of Grand Jury Work.

ADJOURNMENT IS SUDDEN

Formidable Array of Legal Talent
For Defense Causes Feeling That
State Will Have Big Risk.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 29.—Reaction has set in toward the special grand jury's work in the corrupt elections investigation. Today the people are asking doubtfully will any one be convicted? The adjournment of the grand jury after returning only a comparatively few indictments was the most surprising event of the entire investigation.

A long and formidable array of legal counsel for the indicted men also has inspired a general feeling that the prosecution can hardly cope with the opposition. The announcement of eminent counsel to assist special prosecutor Joseph Roach is being anxiously awaited in reform circles.

Supported by public expressions from Circuit Judge Charles M. Fortuna and Roach as well as minority party leaders, the average citizen of Terre Haute believes that the primaries, registrations and elections in 1912 and 1913 were marked by gross frauds. Some leading politicians who were named in printed statements as responsible participants in the frauds escaped the grand jury's sweep.

The record in indictments follows: Mayor Donn M. Roberts, charged in five counts with violation of the election law at the primaries in Taylorville in May, 1912.

Cotton Chase, a red light district politician, indicted with Roberts on three counts.

Mayor Roberts, charged in a sixth indictment with conspiring to falsify register voters. With him on the same charge were named: C. S. Ball, city attorney; Marx Myers, a leading clothing merchant and member of the board of public safety; Gerhardt Moninger, newly elected city councilman and a captain in the state militia; and John Roper, a brewery employe.

William Huffman, member of the Roberts combine in the old council, indicted for permitting the removal of ballots from an election official.

Dr. E. T. Zaring, Grover Smith and James Harris, named in one indictment for an offense the same as Huffman's.

Indictments against three men for trafficking in women in the red light district completed the grand jury's report.

Society News

The Tri Kappa will meet Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the home of Miss Hazel Lytle in East Sixth street.

About forty members of the Men's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church had a most enjoyable evening last night at the home of William Helm, corner of Harrison and Third streets. The line was drawn on refreshments and the evening was devoted to impromptu speaking. Especially happy and timely talks were made by the Rev. J. B. Meacham and John F. Moses. The host especially enjoyed the occasion immensely. It has been planned to hold monthly meetings, but the date for the next one, which will be at the home of L. Link's, has not been set.

Fourteen guests who attended the announcement party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Wyatt in North Main street last evening were held in suspense all evening and did not learn what they expected until just before they departed.

After the course dinner, when they entered the parlor, they saw a massive cupid cut from card board beautifully painted and carrying a grip which was marked "special." Before the guests left each one was asked to pull a ribbon from the grip, and Miss Jean Bishop of Indianapolis was the one to draw the ribbon bearing the announcement.

She read it to the guests: that Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wyatt announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Georgia Burt Wyatt, to Earl Moore, the wedding to take place some time in March.

The dining room was beautiful. The color scheme of yellow was carried out in every particular. There were no lights except yellow candles on the table, a large one in the center and twelve larger candles around the table which were covered with yellow shades in the shape of roses. A rich mellow light was shed all over the room. The place cards were little cupids.

The guests included: Mrs. George C. Wyatt, Miss Wanda Wyatt, Mrs. Walter Hubbard, Miss Helen Scott, Miss Henrietta Coleman, Mrs. Derby Green, Miss Hazel Lytle, Miss Catherine Hitt, Miss Norma Smith, Mrs. Warder Wyatt, Miss Georgia Wyatt and Miss Helen U. McNitt of Loganport, Miss Jean Bishop of Indianapolis and Miss Olive Traylor of Connersville.

Amusements

The Princess will show the usual three pictures tonight. The first is a Lubin drama entitled "His Chorus Girl Wife." It is said to tell a dramatic story and is full of human interest. The second is a Vitagraph drama "His Last Fight." Aneta Stewart and Ralph Ince are featured in this one. It is the story of how a girl of great beauty is won by an ex-prize fighter. The last is a Kalem comedy "The Landress and the Lady." Ruth Roland is featured. Tomorrow night a two-reel Biograph "By Man's Law" will be shown.

The Gem will show a two reel Imp drama "Who Killed Olga Carew?" for tonight. It is said to be a thrilling story. It revolves about a photographer, an artist and an adventuress, who yields a peculiar deadening influence over the life of the latter. The other is a Powers comedy entitled "The Doctor's Orders." The Loyal Women's Bible class of the Main Street Christian church had charge of the theater last night. An extra good program was given and large crowds attended.

WILL HAVE TO SIT UP NIGHTS

Teachers Who Contemplate Examinations This Year Will Find Many New Features.

THAT MAKE TESTS HARDER

Examination Days Will be the Last Saturday of Every Month This Year Until August.

Indications are that those who contemplate the teachers' examinations which begin next Saturday and continue on the last Saturday of each month until August, will have to sit up o' nights to get ready. A number of important changes are made which will make the tests much harder.

The county superintendent is in receipt of a list of rules for the examinations and they show many important changes. Among the most important new features is the fact that for the first time in Indiana questions in agriculture will be offered, but the teacher will not be required to have a license on this topic until January 1, 1915.

Among the changes are:

Three primary questions will be added to each list of common school questions and the applicants for primary licenses will answer the three primary questions and any three of the eight common school questions.

The term "domestic science," used in the school law is not to be interpreted to apply to cooking alone but is used in the sense of household arts or home economics.

As there are schools in which the general problems of domestic science will be taught and not the special phases of cooking or sewing provision has been made for an examination in domestic science as well as in cooking and sewing. Any six of the eight questions in domestic science will meet the requirements for such general domestic science examination, while any three of the eight in domestic science and the three in cooking will answer for the examination in cooking and any three of the eight in domestic science and three in sewing will answer for the examination in sewing. * * * While teachers of agriculture must hold licenses of some kind for the year 1914 it is not mandatory that such license shall be in agriculture before Sept. 1, 1915. However, a set of questions has been placed with the supervisors' lists, to provide for any teachers or supervisors who desire to take an examination in that subject. * * * The state board has complied with requests from both county and city superintendents for supervisors' examinations each month of the year, and therefore supervisors' lists are included for January and will be found among the lists of each succeeding month.

Local News

Connersville exchanges say that petitions are being circulated there to obtain signatures to call a local option election.

The Republican company has secured the contract to print the bond issue of $20,000 for the city. The ordinance for the bond issue was passed at the last council meeting.

The strong wind today played havoc with everything. It caused a loss of about fifty dollars at the Schlichte building in First street, occupied by the C. E. Cowing & Bro. harness and buggy store. One corner of one of the big plate glass windows had been broken by a ball, but when the wind got a good blow at the glass this morning, it cracked the window from one corner to the other and a new glass will have to be purchased.

James E. Watson's Sunday School Class will hold an exchange at Mrs. Belle Cosands Millinery Store, Saturday, February 7th.

Value of Co-operation.

Many of the largest chambers of commerce and board of trades that had for years confined their efforts to city affairs have of late years reorganized or have established departments for the purpose of cooperating with the people on farms near by.

A few years ago these organizations would have scouted the idea that there was a field in which merchants and farmers might profitably work together for the upbuilding of the community. Now, however, the merchant, who often is in fact a farmer, also is as much interested in improving farm crops and farming as is the farmer himself.

Intelligent citizens of all classes have begun to see that, while a large field must be left free for the exercise of individual initiative and enterprise, there are a great many things that must be done by the community as a whole. There may be some selfishness in the merchants' wanting the farmers to raise bigger crops, but the farmers are nevertheless the biggest gainers by the improvement.

The example that merchants have set in helping the farmers to better themselves might well be followed by the farmers in helping the merchants to better themselves. They can do this most directly by buying at home everything they can, and if they can not buy the good, quality or class they want they can best help their community by making their complaints to the merchants themselves.
It certainly is a doubtful expedient to send away from home for an article the merchant doesn't carry without letting him know that he has not stocked goods for which there is a demand in his community.

"I think the organization of a
Chamber of Commerce is alright, but I don't like this spasmodic way of doing it. I don't like the revival plan." This was the expression of a business man in Rushville when he was being asked to sign an application for membership to the Chamber of Commerce. Now what are the facts about the "revival way" of organizing anything? Practically every worthy thing accomplished
now-a-days is done on the revival plan. And why? This is the busy age and if a thing is worth doing it is worth doing quickly. Why wait for weeks to formulate a plan of action?
Most people would become disgusted
if the new organization were formed that way, and again, this is to be an organization that is to reflect the energy, the pluck, the get-there spirit of the business men and citizens of a live bustling city, then why not do it and do it quickly?

C. M. Yocum Points to Spiritual Significance of Church Attendance

(By the Rev. C. M. Yocum.)
That many people are unappre-ciative of the meaning and value of regular attendance on the public worship of the church must be evident to all. The loss to the individual and the church, by reason of this absence, if it could be visualized and actualized in some way so that it could be seen, would be appalling.
This loss consists of elements which enter vitally into the life and success of the church, such as dimini-tion in faith, in spiritual power, in biblical knowledge, in religious enthusiasm, in finances and in the aggregation of strength which comes from numbers. What are some of the benefits which result from a faithful and conscientious attendance in public worship?
The very mingling together, face to face with the best people of the church and community in fraternal intercourse in the house of God,
where all meet on a common level,
has a hallowed influence which is easily underestimated. It is refreshing to drink of the cup of fellowship.
Not only do we meet with each other in the Lord's house, we meet also with God. A sense of His presence cultivates the spirit of reverence. It is good to be separated the busy marts of commercial activity and reverently to bow before our Lord. The house of God is called the house of prayer. Of course we can pray at home but there is a power in public worship—in joining a number of hearts together in common prayer and voices in common hymns of praise—which does not attach to private devotions.
Who can estimate the value to the soul of participation in those memorial emblems which Jesus instituted for his disciples, and by which he wishes to be remembered? Every time we approach the observance of the Lord's supper we are called to repentance and to a renewal of our devotion to Him and to all higher and nobler things. Those who neglect this service do a great injustice to their spiritual natures and impoverish their own souls.
Faithful church attendance cannot but enrich the individual life and enlarge the Kingdom of God.

CALLED ON JUDGE BLAIR FOOT WAS BADLY MASHED

Judge George Gray Was in Shelby-ville Yesterday.

According to the Shelbyville News,
Judge George L. Gray of Connersville was in Shelbyville yesterday calling on Judge Blair. Although the purpose of his visit was not given out it is naturally supposed that his call had to do with the story recently published in the Liberty Express in which charges were made against Judge Gray and in which it was alleged that he made an effort to induce Judge Blair to render a decision favoring him on a case that was being tried in the Rush circuit court.
Judge Gray has not yet replied to the story and it is supposed that he was in Shelbyville for this purpose.
A statement from the Connersville judge is looked for any time.

CAN'T EVEN GIVE CHILDREN AWAY

Widow is Pauper and Can't Keep Them but They Refuse to Stay Away From Mother.

PENSION CLUB ORGANIZED

(By United Press.)

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 29.—Mrs. Alice Kelly, widow, can't give her three children away. She tried. They cried and were inconsolable. Mrs. Kelly can't keep her children unless she has an income. She is a pauper from sickness. She scrubbed and took in washing to keep her little brood together until typhoid fever made the tub too hard for her. Out of this dilemma has grown Mothers' Pension Club No. 1 of Evansville. The good women of this city are each pledging a small sum monthly for Mrs. Kelly. Mrs. J. H. Conn has taken the lead in the work. "A mother's care is everything. Nothing can take the place of her love—and Mrs. Kelly's children love her," said Mrs. Conn. "There ought to be a mothers' pension law for such cases." But there isn't in Indiana, so let's form a pension for Mrs. Kelly. "Must Mrs. Kelly give away her children because she can not earn enough when right here in this beautiful city there are men or institutions who have more of this world's goods than they can count?" asked J. G. Birdsall, another contributor to Mrs. Kelly's pension. He asked for twenty men to come forward and pledge $50 a week as long as the family needed their help.

ALWAYS HAS A WAITING LIST

Chicago's Nickle Hotel is the Most Popular Hostelry in the "Windy City."

THERE ARE 95 PRIVATE ROOMS

Clothing is Thoroughly Fumigated and Ventilated Before it is Returned to Lodger.

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Jan., 29.—The "price of a beer" will work wonders at the Rufus Dawes Memorial Hotel, recently opened to the public and a clientele made up largely of members of the great army of the unemployed. For a single nickel, you can get a bed for the night, a bath, a shave, a haircut and have your clothing fumigated. A night shirt is provided free of charge for every lodger. In the hotel restaurant, another nickel will move the following assortment of food your way—a beef stew with potatoes and vegetables, a cup of coffee with milk and two fat rolls. If you want a change in menu, you can ask the gentlemanly waiter to bring you a bowl of soup instead of stew. For ten cents you can get a "private room", but according to W. D. Taylor, manager, few of the regular guests squander a dime on such a luxury unless the dormitory rooms are occupied. The new hotel was built by Charles G. Dawes, Chicago banker, as a memorial to his son, who lost his life on Lake Geneva, Wis. The original investment was $100,000. Receipts thus far have run far below operating expenses, but Dawes said today he "guessed he could stand the drain."

There are 95 "private rooms" in the new hotel, and two dormitories, accommodating 504 men, giving the place a total capacity of 599 guests. Walls and floors are of concrete and are washed each day by powerful streams of water to prevent accumulation of dirt and vermin. The guest at the Dawes hotel plunges his name on the register with all the dignity of a guest at the Hotel La Salle. If he deposits a dime for a "private room" he is given a key; if his is to be a nickel night, he is assigned to one of the dormitories where double-decker beds line the rooms. An attendant escorts the new arrival to the bathroom and gives him a check when he surrenders his clothes. The clothes are taken to the fumigating room, while the lodger rids himself of surplus dirt under a shower. Another attendant brings him a "nightie" and he is put to bed between sheets—real sheets fresh from the laundry—while his head reposes on a pillow covered by a snow-white slip. In the morning the clothing, thoroughly fumigated and ventilated, is returned to the lodger. An attendant hands him a safety razor, a shaving brush and a cake of soap. Shaving is not compulsory; neither is the guest forced to use the little cake of shoe-blackening handed him, but all around are cards reminding him that the "spruced-up" man stands the best chance of landing the job. "We have been 'full to the roof' since the place opened", said Manager Taylor, who studied sociology before he took the job. "Mr. Dawes is satisfied, and I am satisfied that the experiment is proving a success. All some of these fellows need is a chance to clean up and look like men when they search for jobs." Hogan's "flop house", the municipal lodging house and other hotels that catered to the "down and outs", report a big slump in business since the opening of the Dawes hotel.

COMING STATE CONVENTION

Potentialities of Democratic Situation Being Discussed.

Indianapolis, Jan. 29.—The political pot is beginning to boil and about the jobbies of the hotels where men who do things in Indiana politics are wont to gather there is much discussion of the possibilities of the coming Democratic state convention, which will be the first to put a state ticket in the field. In these informal confabs the probable personnel of that ticket, of course, is the chief topic of discussion, and it is a matter of comment that in the discussion of the various candidacies, no name is oftener heard than that of George Macomber of Danville, treasurer of Hendricks county, who is a candidate for the nomination to the office of state treasurer, subject to the decision of the coming convention. Mr. Macomber is a Normal school graduate and for a number of years was connected with the educational department of the Indiana boys' school at Plainfield, later assuming the superintendency of a similar institution in Missouri. He was elected treasurer of Hendricks county in 1910, being the first Democrat to hold that position in 1912 he was re-elected.

SPINNEY SIGNS TWO MEN

Gets Players for Connersville Team.
Keifel is One.

Connersville evidently is preparing for a winning baseball team the coming season. According to the Cincinnati Enquirer today, the management of the team there has requested John Spinney to sign Pitcher Bacon and Catcher Keifel. Connersville fans believe they will make a great battery. The pitcher is not known to local fans, but Keifel is and is considered the best catcher that was on the local grounds last season. He played here with the Y. M. I. team and is sure a real catcher. The players in and around Cincinnati are going fast, but it is not known whether the local management has signed any or not, or whether there will even be a team here next season or not.

ROMINE TURNS IN SIGNED CONTRACT

Will Get Tryout With Indianapolis Association Team Making Second One Under Manager.

NO DISAPPOINTMENT HERE

No one here ever took the talk of Frank Romine playing ball here the coming season seriously and if the management ever had a conversation with Romine regarding his coming here, they sure fell for a lot of kidding, for he has signed with the Indianapolis American Association team at $300 a month. Naturally this is a little too steep for Rushville as $200 a year would have been pretty good.

But the straight of it is that his signed contract was sent to Manager Hendricks of the Indians. This will be his second tryout under Hendricks. During the 1909 season Romine was given a tryout by Hendricks at Ft. Wayne. He was turned over to the Maysville team of the Blue Grass league and later picked up by Cincinnati. Last season Romine pitched great ball for Newcastles and local fans would like to see him make good with the Indianapolis team.

Ruddell is in a more serious condition than is Moon. The fight between the two was provoked by Moon objecting to alleged ill treatment of his daughter, Mrs. Ruddell. One bullet struck Moon in the groin. The other caused a scalp wound.

Chicken Thieves Plead Guilty.
Logansport, Ind., Jan. 29.—Clarence and Wash Burnell, who pleaded guilty to attempting to steal chickens from Frank Jones, a farmer living south of the city, were sentenced to two to fourteen years in prison, but sentence was suspended pending good behavior. Clarence at the time of the attempted robbery was shot by Jones.

CLERKS OF COURT MAY KEEP 10 CENTS

State Board of Accounts Makes a Ruling as Regards Hunting and Fishing Licenses.

ACT OF 1911 NOT REPEALED

The State Board of Accounts has decided that county clerks may keep ten cents from each resident hunting and fishing license fee of $1 they collect. The question had arisen in various parts of the State in regard to a law, passed by the 1913 assembly, which some had thought repealed the provision in the law of 1911 permitting clerks to keep ten cents for each license sold. It was contended also that the 1913 fee and salary law affected the hunting license fee.

Field examiners throughout the State, who are examining the office of county clerks, will be told in letters sent out from the board of the board's ruling on this class of fees. In several counties field examiners had been contending that the clerks were not entitled to the fee. Questions impelled the State Board to begin an investigation. George W. Miles, commissioner of fisheries and game, said that although the act of the 1913 legislature might seem to indicate a possible repeal of the 1911 provision, allowing the fees, no such intent was in the action of the last legislature.

CHARLES E. VREELAND.

Rear Admiral, Member of General and Joint Boards.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Rear Admiral Vreeland of the general board of the navy startled members of the house committee on naval affairs when he declared that in case of hostilities with Japan it would be comparatively easy for the far eastern power to take the Philippines and possibly land its troops in the territories of Hawaii and Alaska.

WILSON WANTS 2 BATTLESHIPS

President is Insistent on This Program, Secrat of Navy Tells House Naval Committee.

Representative Sherley of Kansas Scores Alarmist For Suggesting War With Japan Even.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 29.—President Wilson is insistent that not less than two new battleships shall be built next year. Secretary of the Navy Daniels told the House naval affairs committee this today.

He did not discuss the situation as bearing in the remotest part on the government's naval building program.

The naval position at present should cause no special alarm, Representative Sherley of Kansas told the House committee today in scoring the alarmists. Taking a fling at Rear Admiral Vreeland for suggesting yesterday a war with Japan, the representative declared the Corregidor Island in the Philippines is so fortified at present that it could withstand an attack for six months.

Secretary Daniels thought the navy policy of the government should be taken out of politics. This government is not in mad rivalry with the powers, he declared, but Congress should authorize the expenditure of sufficient money for the government to maintain its prestige on the seas.

The construction by the government of an armor plate plant was urged by Daniels.

NO DANGER YET OF WAR WITH JAPAN

President Wilson Declares United States is Not on Verge of Serious Friction.

HAS RIGHT TO SELL ARMS

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 29.—The story that this government is on the verge of a serious friction with Japan as a result of the Mexican question was declared to be unfounded by the President this afternoon. The President told callers that it was absolutely false that the Japanese government was supplying arms to Huerta's forces.

Japanese commercial houses and commercial houses of other nations are selling arms and ammunition to Huerta, but the President told his callers they had a perfect right to do so under the provisions of international law, and even if this government did want to object, it could not do so.

Jury Acquits Debolt.

Anderson, Ind., Jan. 29.—A jury in the circuit court found Alois Debolt not guilty of having stolen $500 worth of jewelry and diamonds from Mrs. Harding, his former landlady at Elwood. Even more pleased than Debolt at the result of the verdict was his sweetheart, Miss Josephine St. John of Paris, Ill., who sat by his side during the three days of the trial. It is said that the wedding of the young couple will take place soon.

MYSTERY of the BOULE CABINET BY BURTON E. STEVENSON

Copyright, 1913, by Burton E. Stevenson

CHAPTER V. Precautions.

BUT it wasn't apoplexy. It was Parks who reassured us when he came hurrying back a minute later with a glass of water in one hand and a small phial in the other.

"He has these spells," he said. "It's a kind of vertigo. Give him a whiff of this. He'll be all right pretty soon, though I never saw him quite so bad."

"We can't leave him lying here on the floor," said Godfrey.

"There's a couch seat in the music room," Parks suggested, and the three of us bore the still unconscious man to it.

Then Godfrey and I sat down and waited while he gasped his way back to life.

"Though he can't really tell us much," Godfrey observed. "In fact, I doubt if he'll be willing to tell anything. But his face, when he looked at the picture, told us all we need to know."

Thus reminded, I took the photograph out of the pocket into which I had slipped it and looked at it again.

"Where did you get it?" I asked.

"The police photographer made some copies. This is one of them."

"But what made you suspect that the two women were the same?"

"I don't just know," answered Godfrey reflectively. "They were both French, and Rogers spoke of the red lips; somehow it seemed probable. Hello—our friend is coming around. How do you feel?"

"Pretty weak," Rogers answered, almost in a whisper. "What sent me off?" Then his face turned purple, and I thought he was going off again.

But after a moment's heavy breathing he lay quiet. "I remember now," he said. "Let me see that picture again."

I passed it to him. His hand was trembling so he could hardly take it, but I saw he was struggling desperately to control himself.

"Do you know her?" Godfrey asked.

"Never saw her before," Rogers muttered. "When I first looked at her I thought I knew her, but it ain't the same woman."

"Do you mean to say," Godfrey demanded sternly, "that that is not the woman who called on Mr. Vantine tonight?"

Again Rogers shook his head.

"Oh, no," he protested; "it's not the same woman at all. This one is younger."

Godfrey made no reply, but he sat down and looked at Rogers, and Rogers lay and gazed at the picture, and gradually his face softened as though at some tender memory.

"Come, Rogers," I urged at last; "you'd better tell us all you know. If this is the woman don't hesitate to say so."

"I've told you all I know, Mr. Lester," said Rogers, but he did not meet my eyes. "And I'm feeling pretty bad. I think I'd better be getting to bed."

"Yes, that's best," agreed Godfrey promptly. "Parks will help you," and he held out his hand for the photograph.

Rogers relinquished it with evident reluctance. "Good night, gentlemen," he said weakly and shuffled away, leaning heavily on Parks' shoulder.

"Well!" said I, looking at Godfrey.

"He's lying, of course. We've got to find out why he's lying and bring it home to him. But it's getting late. I must get down to the office. One word, Lester—be sure Rogers doesn't give you the slip."

"I'll have him looked after," I promised. "But I fancy he'll be afraid to run away. Besides, it is possible he's telling the truth. I don't believe any woman had anything to do with either death."

"Who did, then?" asked Godfrey.

"Nobody."

"You mean they both suicided in that abnormal way?"

"No, it wasn't suicide—they were killed—but not by a human being—at least, not directly." I felt that I was floundering hopelessly and stopped. "I can't tell you now, Godfrey," I pleaded. "I haven't had time to think it out. You've got enough for one day."

"Yes," he smiled; "I've got enough for one day. And now goodbye. Perhaps I'll look in on you about midnight, on my way home, if I get through by then."

I was already longing for bed and there remained so much to be done. But he, after a day which I knew had been a hard one, and with a many-column story still to write, was apparently as fresh and eager as ever.

"All right," I agreed. "If you see a light, come up. If there isn't any light I'll be in bed, and I'll kill you if you wake me."

"Conditions accepted," he laughed, as I opened the door for him.

Parks joined me as I turned back into the house after Godfrey left.

"I got Rogers to bed, sir," he said. "He'll be all right in the morning. But he's a queer duck."

"He's been with Mr. Vantine about five years. I don't know much about him. He's a silent kind of fellow, keeping to himself a good deal and sort of brooding over things. But he did his work all right, except once in a while when he keeled over like he did tonight."

"Parks," I said suddenly, "I'm going to ask you a question. You know that Mr. Vantine was a friend of mine, and I thought a great deal of him. Now, what with this story Rogers tells and one or two other things, there is talk of a woman. Is there any foundation for talk of that kind?"

"No, sir," said Parks emphatically. "I've been Mr. Vantine's valet for eight years and more, and in all that time he has never been mixed up with a woman in any shape or form. I always fancied he'd loved a lady who died."

"Thank you, Parks," I said with a sigh of relief. "I've been through so much today that I felt I couldn't endure that. And now—"

"Beg pardon, sir," said a voice at my elbow. "We have everything ready, sir."

I turned with a start to see a little, clean shaven man.

"The undertaker's assistant, sir," explained Parks, seeing my look of astonishment. "He came while you and Mr. Godfrey were in the music room."

"Where shall we put the body, sir?" asked the man.

"Why not leave it where it is?" I asked impatiently.

"Very good, sir," said he, and presently the undertaker and his assistant took themselves off, to my intense relief.

"And now, Parks," I began, "there is something I want to say to you. Let go somewhere and sit down."

A few minutes later we were sitting opposite each other in the room where Vantine and I had sat not many hours before. I liked Parks, and I felt he could be trusted. At any rate, I had to take the risk.

"Now, Parks," I began again, "what I have to say to you is very serious. And I want you to keep it to yourself. I know that you were devoted to Mr. Vantine. I may as well tell you that he has remembered you in his will. I am sure you are willing to do anything in your power to help solve the mystery of his death. I have a sort of idea how his death came about. The mystery, whatever it is, is in the anteroom where the bodies were found or in the room next to it where the furniture is. Now, I am going to lock up those rooms, and I want you to see that nobody enters them without your knowledge."

"Not very likely that anybody will want to enter them, sir," and Parks laughed a grim little laugh.

"I am not so sure of that," I dissented, speaking very seriously. "In fact, I am of the opinion that there is somebody who wants to enter those rooms very badly. I am going to make it your business to keep him out and to capture him if you catch him trying to get in."

"Trust me for that, sir," said Parks promptly. "What is it you want me to do?"

"I want you to put a cot in the hallway outside the door of the anteroom and sleep there tonight. Tomorrow I will decide what further precautions are necessary."

"Very good, sir," said Parks. "I'll get the cot up at once."

"There is one thing more," I went on. "I have given the coroner my personal assurance that none of the servants will leave the house until after the inquest. I suppose I can rely on them?"

"Oh, yes, sir. I'll see they understand how important it is."

"Rogers, especially," I added, looking at him.

"I understand, sir," said Parks. "Very well. And now let us go down and lock up those rooms."

They were still ablaze with light, but both of us faltered a little. I think, on the threshold of the anteroom, for in the middle of the floor stood a stretcher, and on it was an object covered with a sheet, its outlines horribly suggestive. But I took myself in hand and entered. Parks followed me and closed the door.

The anteroom had two windows, and the room beyond, which was a corner one, had three. All of them were locked, but a pane of glass seemed to me an absurdly fragile barrier against any one who really wished to enter.

"Aren't there some wooden shutters for these windows?" I asked.

"Yes, sir; they were taken down yesterday and put in the basement. Shall I get them?"

"I think you'd better," I said. "Will you need any help?"

"No, sir; they're not heavy. If you'll wait here, you can snap the bolts into place when I lift them up from the outside."

"Very well," I agreed, and Parks hurried away.

I entered the inner room and stopped before the Boule cabinet. There was a certain air of arrogance about it, as it stood there in that blaze of light; something threatening, too; something sinister and deadly—

There was a rattle at the window, and I saw Parks lifting one of the shutters into place. I threw up the sash, and pressed the heavy bolts carefully into their sockets, then closed the sash and locked it. The two other windows were secured in their turn, and with a last look about the room, I turned out the lights. The anteroom windows were soon shuttered in the same way. Then, before extinguishing the lights I approached that silent figure on the stretcher, lifted the sheet and looked for the last time upon the face of my dead friend. It was no longer staring and terrible, but calm and peaceful as in sleep—almost smiling. With wet eyes and contracted throat, I covered the face again, turned out the lights and left the room.

A sudden thought occurred to me. "Parks," I said, "is it true that there is a burglar alarm on all the windows?"

"Yes, sir. It rings a bell in Mr. Vantine's bedroom and another in mine and sends in a call to the police."

"Why didn't it work when I opened those windows just now?" I demanded.

Parks laughed.

"Because I threw off the switch, sir," he explained, "when I came out to get the shutters. The switch is in a little iron box on the wall just back of the stairs, sir. It's one of my duties to turn it on every night before I go to bed."

I breathed a sigh of relief.

"Is it on again now?"

"Certainly is, sir. After what you told me I'd not be likely to forget it."

"You'd better have a weapon handy, too," I suggested.

"I have a revolver, sir."

"That's good. And don't hesitate to use it. I'm going home. I'm dead tired."

To be continued.

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."

—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."

—Mrs. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

If the Legislature Would Pass a Law---

That every vehicle user in Rush County had to buy his vehicles where he could get the best bargain for his money and leave it to the majority of vehicle users in the county to decide, you would have to buy your next one from us or break the law. There is no question about this, as the majority has already decided we give them more value for their money than they can get elsewhere and have backed up their judgment by buying their vehicles from us. The road service you can get out of one of our buggies makes it an easy proposition for us to sell a customer the second time and also makes it easy for us to sell his neighbors and friends as our vehicle users are always satisfied and make us customers. We still have a few of those nice, roomy Storm Buggies in stock and also have a sample of our 1915 Storm Buggy that you want to see. It is the first Storm Buggy ever built that has sliding doors that can not rattle and also has several new features you want to see. Bring your vehicle business to us no matter what it is and we will take care of it.

New Resident Pays
Compliments to
Local Merchants

A new resident of Rushville, whom we will call Smith, because that is not his name, just recently had occasion to have dealings with a number of Rushville concerns.

Smith built himself a house recently, and as he expresses it, "It is some house." He made a careful study of the local concerns, and below he tells of the people, from whom he bought.

"I walked into the Robbins-Nipp Insurance & Real Estate Office one day. They picked out a lot in one of your beautiful residence districts, and I bought it at a surprisingly low price. They had no trouble in selling a fire insurance policy in one of the many strong companies that they represent." Robbins-Nipp Agency sell insurance that really insures.

The Case Lumber Yard gave me lowest prices on my lumber, and showed me that they had facilities for turning out the work that I wanted, with the result that they got my contract. Mr. Grindle handled my order in record time.

John S. Beale, our leading contractor, naturally got the plumbing and heating job. Mr. Beale has a new, large and roomy building, "on the Square," and he can handle anything at all in this line. For equipment and facilities, I hand the blue ribbon to Mr. Beale.

I went to see Ed Crosby when I got ready for my painting and decorating. He took me out and allowed me to inspect some of his work, and now I am a Crosby booster. Quality and price considered, Crosby's work is the best I have ever seen.

I had my slating and tinning done by Walter Perkins, who has his office at Frazee's Lumber Yard. Mr. Perkins is an expert in his line, and I do not look for any trouble from leaking roofs. For his good work, his price was very reasonable.

I had the Mahin Electric Co. install all of my electric fixtures. Mr. Mahin has had a number of years experience in the electric line, and he is an authority in that work. I left everything to him, to use his best judgment, and he installed fixtures which I am sure are the best made. All of my light globes are the famous Fostoria Mazdas.

I always buy good things when I buy, because I figure that they are the cheapest in the end. That is the reason I went to Fred A. Caldwell to purchase my house furnishings. Mr. Caldwell carries some splendid lines of furniture, and has as complete an assortment of designs as the average big town store.

In buying a piano, we decided we could get more satisfaction, and many pleasant hours with a Kimball Player-Piano than with any other. It brings to our home the highest type of music, and it combines all the beautiful features of tone, touch and artistic finish that characterize the Kimball Player-Piano. The Boxley Piano Co., are the Kimball factory representatives in Rushville and vicinity.

Mrs. Smith has one great hobby, and that is pretty chinaware and silverware, and Kennard's is where she gets just what she wants.

We could not have done better at Indianapolis. Kennard's also carry the largest line of watches, diamonds, jewelry in Rushville.

Mrs. Smith buys her nicknacks, toys, cups and saucers at Bell's Red Front store and Bazaar. Mr. Bell carries everything, so it is only natural that he gets the largest business. The Red Front Store carries as complete a line as the best 5 and 10 cent stores.

We brought some of our carpets, rugs, and curtains with us, and they were sadly in need of cleaning. We sent them to Ball & Bebout and they came back, looking like new. I believe that a number of housewives in Rushville are not aware of the fact that this concern thoroughly dry cleans house furnishings, besides the usual pressing and cleaning of clothing.

My own clothes I buy from Betker's. He carries the latest pattern any styles, and is our leading haberdasher. Betker is the local representative of Ed V. Price Co. Who's your tailor?

Our drug store supplies we get at the Penslar Drug Store, F. B. Johnson & Co. They have a most complete line of drugs, sundries and toilet articles.

For shoes, well, there is no place like Bodine's. Mr. Bodine handles Queen Quality, Keith's Konquerer, and Dr. Reed's cushion shoes.

MINISTER GIVES
SERMON ON BOOZE

Made Largest Number of Conversions
and Collected Largest Amount
of Money at Revival.

NO VALUE IN BEER AS FOOD

(By United Press.)

Marion, Ind., Jan. 29.—"Booze" was the subject of the Rev. Milford Lyon's revival talk which made the largest number of conversions and collected the largest amount of money since his remarkable revival campaign opened in this city more than two weeks ago.

"A giant monopoly, the liquor traffic, has assumed such gigantic proportions as to imperil the very existence of our nation," said Rev. Lyon. "The abolition of the liquor traffic is the greatest issue before the American people today."

"According to the most conservative estimate there were spent for liquor last year in this country $1,675,000,000.00."

"This was more than four times the amount spent for religion and education."

"We have heard a great deal in periods of depression of over-production. The difficulty has been under consumption. People have wasted their money in riotous living and it has been lost to honest and legitimate channels."

"If every gallon of intoxicating beverage were destroyed I declare without hesitation that the world would not be one whit poorer. Brewers are declaring in flaming advertisements the great value of beer for food. The rate of mortality among brewers is almost twice as much as that of any other occupation. Baron Liebig, the German chemist, has said that if a man drinks 10 quarts daily of the Bavarian beer for an entire year he would not get as much nourishment as is contained in a pound loaf of bread."

FLORIDA LANDS
MANY "SUCKERS"

Columbus Minister Says This Variety
of Fish Outnumbers Any Other
There—Pays to Investigate

WARNS AGAINST BUYING SOIL

(By United Press.)

Columbus, Ind., Jan. 29.—"Suckers?" is the mildest term applied by Rev. Lewis King, a local pastor wintering in Florida, to the northerners and other outsiders who buy Florida farm lands unseen.

"Florida is not a poor man's paradise as advertised," said Rev. King. "Florida can boast of many varieties of fish, but none can compare to the northern 'suckers.' These human suckers find themselves hooked and landed and financially stranded on the sand wastes or among the saw grass wastes of Florida."

"Let me warn you that if you are determined to come to Florida and enjoy its genial sunshine and want to farm a little 'on the side,' to pay expenses, come and see for yourself. Be careful not to land ankle deep in white sand or neck deep in a cypress swamp."
